INTERSTELLAR
2014, Christopher Nolan, USA, 169 min.
With Matthew McConaughey, Anne Hathaway, Jessica Chastain, Michael Caine

“What a beautiful and epic film is INTERSTELLAR.”
—Richard Roeper, Chicago Sun-Times

Christopher Nolan’s intricate, emotionally charged visionary blockbuster invites multiple viewings, and now you can see it (or see it again) the way that celebrated celluloid advocate Nolan wants you to see it: on film. As the earth suffocates in the grip of a latter-day Dust Bowl, astronaut-turned-farmer Cooper (McConaughey) leaves his beloved daughter behind to pilot a last-ditch expedition in search of a habitable planet on the other side of the universe. 35mm widescreen. CHICAGO PREMIERE!
2014, Stephen Belber, USA, 90 min.
With Patrick Stewart, Carla Gugino, Matthew Lillard

“This is Stewart’s show, and it’s a dynamite role.”—Gabe Toro, The Playlist

Adapted by director Belber from his Broadway hit, MATCH provides Patrick Stewart with a showcase role. As aging danseur, choreographer, and Juilliard instructor Tobi Powell, Stewart puts motor-mouthed flamboyance and pan-sexual sparkle into high gear to impress a young couple who request an interview. Emotions run high when it emerges that this pair have a vested interest in exploring a long-buried secret in the dancer’s reckless past. DCP digital. (BS)

The legendary Jean-Luc Godard continues to astonish with this gorgeous, baffling, rewarding foray into 3-D, putting the medium through paces that no one else has ever tried. Godard leads the chase through the world of ideas, and the sense of experimentation is extravagant. Concepts like democracy, terrorism, unemployment, economy, and war collide with the loose narrative of a man, a woman, a friendly dog, and an argument. There are brain-scrambling superimpositions, texts, clips from old films, solarized images, and even a costume-drama sequence depicting Mary Shelley and Lord Byron. It’s the cinema experience of the decade. In French and English with English subtitles. DCP digital 3-D. (BS)

The Wednesday, January 21, 6:00 pm screening is a Movie Club event. Facilitated by Michael Phillips, film critic for the Chicago Tribune. (See p. 3.)

Professor Daniel Morgan of the University of Chicago, author of Late Godard and the Possibilities of Cinema, will discuss the film following the 7:45 pm screening on Thursday, January 22.

“A thrilling cinematic experience...deeply, excitingly challenging.”—Manohla Dargis, The New York Times

“Joyously chaotic...a bracing riddle...buoyant in spirit.”—Michael Phillips, Chicago Tribune

“Packed with dazzling images, the film makes 3D feel like something brand-new to the medium.”
—Joe McGovern, Entertainment Weekly

“For all its provocatively cerebral ideas, the prevailing truth is that GOODBYE TO LANGUAGE is actually a great deal of fun.”
—David Ehrlich, The Dissolve

From January 3 through March 4, the Gene Siskel Film Center presents Godard: The First Wave, a series of seventeen features and three shorts concentrating on the still vigorous 84-year-old auteur’s early career.

From his groundbreaking first feature BREATHLESS to his recent Cannes sensation GOODBYE TO LANGUAGE 3D (playing at the Film Center, Jan. 16-Feb. 5), Jean-Luc Godard has been the seminal figure of modernist cinema. He holds a position in film history roughly equivalent to that of James Joyce in literature, Paul Cézanne in painting, and Charlie Parker in jazz. As the early Godard champion and chronicler Richard Roud wrote, “There is the cinema before Godard and the cinema after Godard.”

Bringing his film critic’s background to a series of exuberant cine-centric early works, Godard continued evolving in a series of masterpieces that delved deeper and wider into political, social, and philosophical concerns, until the apocalyptic scorn of WEEKEND and the self-confessed paralysis of his FAR FROM VIETNAM episode brought him to a crisis point of collapse and reinvention. We conclude the series with two of the later films, EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF and HAIL MARY, that show Godard reconnecting with his earlier concerns, but in a radically redefined way.

Supported by the Cultural Service at the Consulate General of France and the Institut français. Special thanks to Amélie Garin-Davet, Denis Quenelle, and Laurence Geannopulos of the Cultural Service at the Consulate General of France.

—Martin Rubin

GODARD

1959, Jean-Luc Godard, France, 89 min.
With Jean-Paul Belmondo, Jean Seberg
Saturday, January 3, 3:00 pm
Thursday, January 8, 6:00 pm
Saturday, January 10, 5:00 pm

Godard’s revolutionary first feature boasts legendary performances by Jean-Paul Belmondo as a smalltime hood living on the edge and Jean Seberg as the American girl who joins him in his life of crime… for a while. Preceded by LE GRAND ESCROC (1963, 25 min.), Godard’s episode from THE WORLD’S GREATEST SWINDLES, starring Jean Seberg. Both in French with English subtitles; 35mm. (MR)

LE PETIT SOLDAT
THE LITTLE SOLDIER
1960, Jean-Luc Godard, France, 88 min.
With Michel Subor, Anna Karina
Saturday, January 3, 5:15 pm
Tuesday, January 6, 6:00 pm

Godard’s second film, made right after BREATHLESS (but then banned for three years), was his first to star Anna Karina and his first to involve politics in a significant way. Set in Geneva during the Algerian War, it centers on a right-wing journalist/spy (Subor) who falls for a young woman (Karina) who might be working for the other side. In French with English subtitles. 35mm. (MR)

84 min.
With Anna Karina, Jean-Paul Belmondo
Saturday, January 10, 3:15 pm
Thursday, January 15, 6:00 pm
Godard’s breeziest film, this “neorealist musical” is a valentine to his wife Anna Karina, the French New Wave, and the Hollywood movies he loved but declined to follow. Karina plays a softhearted stripper who fervently wants a baby; when her husband (Jean-Claude Brialy) gets cold feet, she turns to his best friend (Belmondo). In French with English subtitles. 35mm widescreen. (MR)

VIVRE SA VIE
(aka MY LIFE TO LIVE)
1962, Jean-Luc Godard, France.
85 min.
With Anna Karina, Sady Rebott
Saturday, January 17, 3:00 pm
Thursday, January 22, 6:00 pm
An episodic account of the short life of a young prostitute, this is the first of Godard’s mature masterpieces, and, like much of his best work, it is both supremely analytical and supremely sensuous. Filmed with a luminous black-and-white purity that evokes Lumière and Dreyer, VIVRE SA VIE is one of the most rigorous, beautiful, and moving of Godard’s films. In French with English subtitles. 35mm. (MR)

CONTEMPT
(LE MÉPRIS)
1963, Jean-Luc Godard, France,
103 min.
With Brigitte Bardot, Michel Piccoli
Saturday, January 17, 4:45 pm
Tuesday, January 20, 6:00 pm
This deeply personal reflection on marriage, movies, and modernism depicts the deteriorating relationship between a screenwriter (Piccoli) and his wife (Bardot) during the seaside shooting of a film version of Homer’s Odyssey, directed by Fritz Lang (playing himself) and produced by a crass American mogul (Jack Palance). In French, English, German, and Italian with English subtitles. DCP digital widescreen. (MR)

PIERROT LE FOU
1965, Jean-Luc Godard, France,
110 min.
With Jean-Paul Belmondo, Anna Karina

Thursday, January 29, 6:00 pm
A film noir drenched in summer sunlight, PIERROT LE FOU follows a restless Parisian ad man (Belmondo) who runs off with his babysitter (Karina) to play gangsters and gunrunners on the Riviera. PIERROT is many cinephiles’ favorite Godard—for its dazzling use of widescreen and color, its lyrical seascapes, its musical numbers, and much more. In French with English subtitles. 35mm widescreen. (MR)

BAND OF OUTSIDERS
(BANDE À PART)
1964, Jean-Luc Godard, France,
97 min.
With Anna Karina, Sami Frey
Saturday, January 24, 5:15 pm
Tuesday, January 27, 6:00 pm
In this resonant mix of wintry melancholy and high-spirited digressions (including the Louvre dash and the famous “Madison” dance), two guys (Sami Frey, Claude Brasseur) compete for a girl (Karina) in their English class and concoct a movie-fed scheme to burgle her aunt’s villa. In French with English subtitles. 35mm. (MR)
MASCULINE FEMININE
(MASCULIN FEMININ)
1966, Jean-Luc Godard, France, 103 min.
With Jean-Pierre Léaud, Chantal Goya
Saturday, January 31, 3:00 pm
Thursday, February 5, 6:00 pm
Tagged “the children of Marx and Coca-Cola” by its director, MASCULINE FEMININE centers on the mainly one-sided romance between a volubly ineffective young radical (Léaud) and a vapid pop singer (Goya) as it explores adolescence, sexuality, consumerism, and Paris in the winter of 1965. In French with English subtitles. 35mm. (MR)

LES CARABINIERS
(THE RIFLEMAN)
1963, Jean-Luc Godard, France, 80 min.
With Patrice Moullet, Marino Masé
Saturday, January 31, 5:00 pm
Tuesday, February 3, 6:00 pm
In this effectively stupid and ugly parable about the stupidity and ugliness of war, two gullible clodhoppers set out from their muddy farm to fight for their King in exchange for “all the treasures of the world.” Preceded by OPÉRATION BÉTON (OPERATION CONCRETE, 1955, 20 min.), Godard’s first film. Both in French with English subtitles. Archival 35mm prints courtesy of the Institut français. (MR)

NEW RESTORATION!
1939, Marcel Carné, France, 93 min.
With Jean Gabin, Arletty
“A definitive example of sensuous, atmospheric moviemaking—you feel that you’re breathing the air that Gabin breathes.”—Pauline Kael

The story begins with a desperate killer (Gabin) besieged by the police. Flashbacks show how he came to the end of his rope: a grueling factory job, a nice girl, a not-so-nice one, and the caddish music-hall performer with a hold over both women. Created by the celebrated team of director Carné and writer Jacques Prévert (CHILDREN OF PARADISE), this quintessential classic of French “poetic realism” is a major forerunner of film noir. A dazzling new 4K digital restoration brings back long-unseen footage censored under the Vichy regime. In French with English subtitles. 4K DCP digital. (MR)

Italian star Servillo, named by the Tribune’s Michael Phillips as “the coolest actor on the planet,” has choice dual roles in this satire of Italian politics. When glum, unpopular party leader Enrico (Servillo) goes missing, his frantic aides use his bipolar, uninhibited twin brother Giovanni as a stand-in. Winchester U. is more imminent meltdown than melting pot when a sassy college radio deejay (Thompson) airs a unique challenge to her white listeners. —Michael Phillips, Chicago Tribune

A psychological thriller with touches of comedy, pathos, spine-tingling threat, and even the supernatural, Oscar-buzzed FORCE MAJEURE wowed them at Cannes, winning the Jury Prize. Appearances are deceptive as a seemingly happy family begins a vacation at a swanky French ski resort. One cataclysmic event changes everything, opening a wide icy chasm in a picture-perfect marriage. In Swedish, English, and French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (BS)

From January 9 through February 4, the Gene Siskel Film Center presents Stranger Than Fiction: Documentary Premieres, our annual showcase for the new and unusual in the world of documentary filmmaking.

In view of the recent sad news of the death of Mike Nichols, it’s fitting that we open the series with COMPASS CABARET 55, a chronicle of the founding of the Chicago cabaret troupe that launched the career of Nichols and many other legendary performers.

Legendary director Sam Fuller is the subject of a unique profile by daughter Samantha in A FULLER LIFE. The checkered career of Indiana outsider artist Peter Anton is the subject of ALMOST THERE, from Kartemquin Films. Trailer-park auteur Giuseppe Andrews gets his close-up in GIUSEPPE MAKES A MOVIE. Native American director Sterlin Harjo discovers the far-reaching roots of a cultural legacy in THIS MAY BE THE LAST TIME. In EMPTYING THE SKIES, novelist Jonathan Franzen follows a band of environmental activists fighting the slaughter of migrating songbirds. THE IMMORTALISTS takes a quirky look at two maverick genetic researchers who contend that death will soon be curable. THE DECENT ONE examines the Jekyll and Hyde life of death-dealing Nazi Heinrich Himmler through letters to his wife and child.

See film descriptions for personal appearance information, and check our web site at siskelfilmcenter.org for appearance updates throughout the series.

Stranger Than Fiction: Documentary Premieres is made possible in part by grants from the Reva & David Logan Foundation, and the National Endowment for the Arts.

Deeply eccentric, shaggy-bearded Cambridge researcher Aubrey de Grey confidently taunts skeptical colleagues with his boasts of pending immortality. DCP digital. (BS)

The garulous, cigar-chomping maverick director Sam Fuller (PICKUP ON SOUTH STREET) honed a larger-than-life persona in a career that ranged from newsboy and crime reporter to G.I., author, adventurer, and kickass filmmaker. Daughter Samantha assembles a swashbuckling profile, based on his own words as channeled by admirers including William Friedkin, Wim Wenders, Jennifer Beals, Mark Hamill, Bill Duke, Tim Roth, and James Franco. THIS MAY BE THE LAST TIME

2014, Sterlin Harjo, USA, 90 min.

Sunday, January 25, 4:45 pm
Wednesday, January 28, 7:45 pm

Native American director Harjo (FOUR SHEETS TO THE WIND, BARKING WATER), takes the unsolved mystery of his uncle’s 1962 disappearance as the jumping-off point for a personal and soulful exploration of the roots of tribal spiritual songs as performed in the small Seminole churches throughout Oklahoma. DCP digital. (BS)

EMPTYPING THE SKIES

2013, Douglas Kass and Roger Kass, USA/Italy, 78 min.

Friday, January 30, 6:00 pm
Wednesday, February 4, 8:00 pm

The filmmakers follow novelist and birdwatcher Jonathan Franzen (The Corrections) to Cyprus, Italy, and points beyond, as a band of vigilante activists work to halt the wholesale slaughter of migrating European songbirds, prized as gourmet treats worth a fortune on the black market. In English, Italian, French, and German with English subtitles. Special advance screening courtesy of Music Box Films. DCP digital. (BS)

CHICAGO PREMIERE!

Dark, droll British humor with a poignant edge marks this offbeat comedy-drama in which death proves to be a life-changer for one tightly buttoned middle-aged bachelor. Finicky John May (Marsan), a low-ranking office drone, handles the final arrangements for London’s unclaimed deceased with eccentric care that betrays his own lack of family. With a lay-off imminent, he vows to give his one last job a proper send-off. If only he could track down the dead man’s mysteriously missing daughter (Froggatt—Anna of DOWNTON ABBEY)... DCP digital. GIUSEPPE MAKES A MOVIE

2014, Adam Rifkin, USA, 82 min.

Sunday, February 1, 5:00 pm
Monday, February 2, 8:00 pm

Outsider art goes wild and wacky, not to mention down and dirty, when erstwhile-teen-actor-turned-filmmaker Giuseppe Andrews embarks on another no-budget opus featuring his trailer-park stock company of real-life drug addicts, alcoholics, and homeless senior citizens. Rifkin, who directed him in DETROIT ROCK CITY, follows the chaotic production of Andrews’s GARBANZO GAS. DCP digital. (BS)

Director Adam Rifkin, a former Chicago native, will be present for audience discussion at both screenings.
From January 17 through February 5, the Gene Siskel Film Center presents Dial 3 for 3-D!!!, a series of five films sampling the sporadic history of stereoscopic systems in the cinema.

The first significant commercial use of 3-D occurred in the early 1950s, when it was one of the technological enhancements introduced by the film industry in an attempt to win back its dwindling audience. Using two strips of film, the 3-D systems of the 1950s were cumbersome in comparison to later systems. Technical difficulties and competition from the widescreen Cinemascope process led to the flame-out of 3-D by 1955. Improved systems spurred periodic revivals of 3-D, with a pronounced boomlet in the early 1980s. However, 3-D was not able to entrench itself until the advent of digital systems in the 2000s, with the mega-blockbuster success of Avatar in 2009-10 sealing the deal.

Almost from the start, 3-D (much like sound and widescreen) has been used intelligently and expressively by skilled directors, from Alfred Hitchcock and Jack Arnold in 1950s to James Cameron and Martin Scorsese in more recent times. As part of our 3-D festivities this month, don’t miss our three-week run of Jean-Luc Godard’s Goodbye to Language 3D (see p. 4) and our screenings of Wim Wenders’s PINA in the Instant Histories series (see p. 14).

Special thanks to James Bond of Full Aperture Systems.

HOUSE OF WAX
1953, André de Toth, USA, 88 min.
With Vincent Price, Phyllis Kirk
Saturday, January 17, 4:45 pm
Tuesday, January 20, 6:00 pm

House of Wax was the first color 3-D movie from a major studio, and it remains one of the best films ever made in 3-D. The enormous success of the film started Vincent Price on his illustrious reign as a horror icon, here playing an unhinged wax sculptor whose Grand Guignol exhibits owe their uncanny realism to a sinister secret recipe. DCP digital 3-D. (MR)

DIAL M FOR MURDER
1954, Alfred Hitchcock, USA, 105 min.
With Grace Kelly, Ray Milland
Friday, January 23, 6:00 pm
Sunday, January 25, 3:00 pm
Thursday, January 29, 6:00 pm

The consensus choice for best 3-D film of the 1950s, Dial M for Murder was not actually released in 3-D until nearly 30 years after it was made. Hitchcock’s highly entertaining thriller makes superb use of the confined space of the main apartment in which a scheming husband (Milland) seeks to set up the murder of his straying wife (Kelly). DCP digital 3-D. (MR)
CAVE OF FORGOTTEN DREAMS
2010, Werner Herzog, France, 90 min.
Saturday, January 24, 4:45 pm
Monday, January 26, 7:45 pm
Herzog brings his idiosyncratic eye to the restricted French cave where 30,000-year-old paintings were discovered in 1994. The paintings—dynamic, supple renderings of horses, lions, and other animals—are astonishing, and 3-D enables us to grasp the textures and contours of their natural setting. In English, French, and German with English subtitles. DCP digital 3-D. (MR)

THE BUBBLE
(aka FANTASTIC INVASION OF PLANET EARTH)
1966, Arch Oboler, USA, 91 min.
With Michael Cole, Deborah Walley
Friday, January 30, 6:00 pm
Saturday, January 31, 6:30 pm
Thursday, February 5, 6:00 pm
This recently restored sci-fi fantasy inaugurated a new single-strip 3-D process named Space-Vision, which enables objects to appear to float completely off the screen. A pregnant young woman and her husband find themselves in a strange town populated by zombie-like people, encased in an impenetrable glass dome, and ruled by a gigantic hand. DCP digital 3-D widescreen. (MR)

CREATURE FROM THE BLACK LAGOON
1954, Jack Arnold, USA, 79 min.
With Richard Carlson, Julie Adams
Saturday, January 31, 3:00 pm
Monday, February 2, 6:00 pm
This superior creature-feature is second perhaps only to DIAL M in the pantheon of 1950s 3-D classics. In the primeval Amazon, the discovery of a humanoid reptile claw sparks a search for the whole creature. The film uses 3-D brilliantly to articulate the separation between the above-water world and the underwater world. DCP widescreen.
INSTANT HISTORIES:
NEW DOCUMENTARY FORMS IN THE DIGITAL AGE

Lecturer: Daniel Eisenberg

From January 23 through May 5, we offer a series of fourteen programs entitled Instant Histories: Documentary in the Digital Age, with weekly Tuesday lectures by Daniel Eisenberg, internationally renowned filmmaker and Professor of Film, Video, New Media, and Animation at the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. The series is presented in cooperation with the SAIC’s Department of Art History, Theory, and Criticism. Additional screenings of the films on Friday or Saturday do not include Prof. Eisenberg’s lecture. Admission to all Instant Histories programs is $5 for Film Center members; usual admission prices apply for non-members.
—Martin Rubin

As digital technology has transformed every aspect of daily life, our conception of time, space, event, and document has transformed as well. We no longer look to authorized sources for the verification of events, and the speed at which we expect to see evidence has become virtually instantaneous. The portability and ubiquity of cameras has made every moment and place subject to our gaze, and every event subject to new conventions of scrutiny and truth. This series examines the ways film and video-makers have changed the conventions of non-fiction filmmaking through signal works produced during the digital turn of the last decade.
—Daniel Eisenberg

The remainder of the Instant Histories schedule will appear in the February Gazette.

SANS SOLEIL, Jan. 23, 27

SANS SOLEIL
(SUNLESS)
1982, Chris Marker, France, 100 min.
Friday, January 23, 6:00 pm
Tuesday, January 27, 6:00 pm
Centering on the electronic/feudal fabric of Tokyo, Marker’s magnum opus unleashes his kaleidoscopic eye in an onslaught of evocative associations: a woman’s smile on the Cape Verde Islands, guerrilla warfare in Guinea Bissau, a volcanic eruption in Iceland, a recherché of VERTIGO on the original locations. Narrated in English. 35mm. (MR)

PINA, Feb. 1, 3, 4

PINA
2011, Wim Wenders, Germany/France/UK, 103 min.
Sunday, February 1, 3:00 pm
Tuesday, February 3, 6:00 pm
Wednesday, February 4, 7:45 pm
This Oscar-nominated tribute to the late choreographer Pina Bausch is as haunting, unconventional, and moving as her own work. Wenders makes exhilarating use of 3-D to open space in every dimension, vivifying such works as “Café Müller” and “Vollmond.” In German, French, and other languages with English subtitles. DCP digital 3-D. (BS)
