DIVIDE AND CONQUER:
THE STORY OF ROGER AILES

2018, Alexis Bloom, USA, 108 min.
Roger Ailes was possibly the most important figure in shaping the American political climate of the last fifty years. Seizing upon the dissolving line between TV and politics, he masterminded the elections of Richard Nixon and George H.W. Bush. As the chief architect of Fox News, Ailes paved the way for our current cheeto-in-chief. A counter-narrative emerges, as female former employees testify to the history of sexual predation that brought about his dramatic downfall. DCP digital. (MR)

“Hypnotic…Ortega has a real eye for flashy, chaotic set pieces and a real ear for excellent Latin rock.”—Chris Nashawaty, Entertainment Weekly

Carlitos (Ferro), a wild-child teen with a mop of golden curls, teams up on heists with working-class dandy Ramón (Darin), but the daring of Ramon’s angelic new accomplice leaves him far behind. Director Ortega splashes the film with outsized sensuality, homoerotic attraction, and a rock ‘n’ roll sensibility. In Spanish with English subtitles. DCP digital. (BS)

The demure, deferential Chela (Brun) has been living a life of declining gentility in a discreet lesbian relationship with her protective partner Chiquita (Irun), but, when their mounting debts send Chiquita to prison, Chela finds her horizons enticingly widening. Friday, January 18, 6:15 pm
Wednesday, January 23, 8:15 pm

The explosive growth of post-WWII suburbia launched legions of returning white G.I.s into a class upgrade that made them lords of the lawn mower and backyard grill, while minorities were simultaneously being barred from the giddy prosperity party of the Fifties. Exploring the dark side of the middle-class ideal of home ownership, director Angelini moves through the decades to link house flipping, the McMansion craze, underwater mortgages, and the 2008 crash with the widening gap between the haves and have-nots. DCP digital. (BS)

Nadia Murad’s quiet teenage life ended in 2014, when ISIS forces attacked her village, taking her and all the other women as sex slaves. Following her subject a few months before she was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize, director Bombach sensitively observes the once-sheltered young woman as she faces the pain of repeatedly reliving her trauma in interviews and public statements, in order to give a voice to the thousands of victims of genocide carried out by the Islamic State. In English and Arabic with English subtitles. DCP digital. (BS)

The face of an aged woman with Alzheimer’s lights up as she tenderly rocks and caresses the adorably lifelike silicone infant that a visitor places in her eager arms. Director Gilbert compassionately records scenarios like these and more, as she moves through the intricate and little-known world of silicone surrogates. DCP digital. (BS)

“Hilarious and heartfelt…totally irresistible.”—Peter Travers, Rolling Stone

Growing up in Clinton-era L.A. with a distracted single mom (Waterston) and a bullying brother (Hedges), 13-year-old Stevie (Suljic) hooks up with a quartet of raucous skateboarders and hurtles through a gauntlet of rites of passage (booze, drugs, danger, theft, sex). In his directorial debut, esteemed actor Hill (MONEYBALL) finds a distinctive groove between the unfiltered edginess of Larry Clark and the humane generosity of Richard Linklater. DCP digital. (MR)

The Owl’s Legacy

(L’HERITAGE DE LA CHOUETTE)
1989, Chris Marker, France/Greece, ca. 340 min.

“Something for the ages...at once illuminating and confounding, heady but playful. It is also seldom less than entertaining.”

Chris Marker (SANS SOLEIL) was the acknowledged master of the film-essay, and THE OWL’S LEGACY was perhaps his most ambitious project. It consists of thirteen 26-minute chapters, each centered on a single word that illustrates one facet of the series’ overriding question: “What is the role of Greece?”

Using as his model the Greek symposium—a banquet in which the flow of wine accompanied the flow of ideas—Marker gathers together an eloquent roster of philosophers, historians, scholars, filmmakers, and musicians to expound upon the pervasive legacy of Greek thought in the modern world. They are joined by another “voice,” that of the unseen, unheard, but totally engaged filmmaker Chris Marker, whose characteristically dazzling digressions and juxtapositions illuminate, critique, and expand upon what is said.

All of this is overseen by the looming figure of the owl—symbol of Athens, the goddess Athena, and wisdom—which recurs in various forms to evoke the Greeks’ revolutionary quest for knowledge and self-knowledge. In French, Greek, English, Japanese, and Georgian with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)

In Becker’s first major film, a not-as-dumb-as-he-seems city lad arrives in a provincial backwater where he finds himself embroiled in a murder, a hidden treasure, and the warring factions of a most peculiar family. Part mystery story, part black comedy, part satire of country-city conflicts, INN is at all times a ripping good yarn, laced with irony and vivid characterizations. No film better captures the youthful ferment of postwar Paris than this high-spirited comedy-drama centered on a quintet of twentyish Parisians: Julien (Gélin), an aspiring ethnographic filmmaker; his best friend Roger (Ronet), a cinematographer and jazz trumpeter; Roger’s girlfriend Thérèse (Auber), a talented actress; Julien’s girlfriend Christine, an untalented actress who uses sex to get ahead; and her brother François, an aspiring playwright with designs on Thérèse. TOUCHEZ PAS AU GRISBI
(HANDS OFF THE LOOT!)
1953, Jacques Becker, France, 94 min.
With Jean Gabin, Jeanne Moreau

Wednesday, January 9, 6:00 pm

Two aging crooks (Gabin, René Dary) plan a spectacular gold heist at Orly Airport, but their plans are complicated by a brutal rival (Lino Ventura) and an unreliable girlfriend (Moreau). Becker’s originality was to treat criminals like ordinary human beings, observing their habits and quiet moments, and the result is not only an exciting crime thriller but also a moving meditation on friendship and growing old. In French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)
ÉDOUARD AND CAROLINE
(ÉDOUARD ET CAROLINE)
1952, Jacques Becker, France, 92 min.
With Daniel Gélin, Anne Vernon

Friday, January 11, 4:15 pm
Saturday, January 12, 5:15 pm
Thursday, January 17, 6:00 pm

This sparkling comedy with troubling undertones evokes the screwball classics of the 1930s and looks forward to the French New Wave of the 1960s. The opening scenes reveal the tensions in Édouard and Caroline’s marriage: he’s a talented pianist frustrated by lack of success and resentful of her upper-class roots. A party at the mansion of Caroline’s snobbish uncle brings those tensions to a head. In French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)

THE LOVERS OF MONTPARNASSE
(LES AMANTS DE MONTPARNASSE)
1958, Jacques Becker, France, 108 min.
With Gérard Philipe, Anouk Aimée, Lilli Palmer

Saturday, January 12, 3:00 pm

Taking over the film from fatally ill Max Ophuls, Becker rewrote the script to accommodate his customary emphases on character and setting. It details the final years of the Italian-born unappreciated genius Amedeo Modigliani (Philipe) as he struggles to survive in Paris, wracked by drug addiction and alcoholism, accompanied by a loyal rich girl (Aimée), and stalked by a predatory art dealer (Lino Ventura). In French with English subtitles. DCP courtesy of the Institut Français; thanks to the Cultural Services of the French Embassy. (MR)

RUE DE L’ESTRAPADE
1953, Jacques Becker, France, 100 min.
With Anne Vernon, Louis Jou dan, Daniel Gélin

Tuesday, January 15, 6:00 pm

RUE DE L’ESTRAPADE is the last in a series of Becker romances notable for their delicate mixture of comedy and melodrama and their feel for Parisian life. When a young wife (Vernon) discovers that her race-driver husband (Jour dan) has cheated on her, she moves into the Latin Quarter, where she meets a seductive musician (Gélin). Godard called it “splendid.” In French with English subtitles. 35mm print courtesy of the Institut Français; thanks to the Cultural Services of the French Embassy. (MR)

ANTOINE AND ANTOINETTE
(ANTOINE ET ANTOINETTE)
1947, Jacques Becker, France, 84 min.
With Claire Mafféi, Roger Pigaut

Friday, January 18, 4:15 pm
Saturday, January 19, 5:30 pm
Tuesday, January 22, 6:00 pm

He’s a printing-press worker; she’s a shop girl whose vivaciousness is a magnet for wolves. The film establishes the attractive young couple’s connubial bliss, then puts it to the test via a lecherous grocer and a lost lottery ticket. Lingering on peripheral characters and incidents, Becker’s centrifugal style weaves a rich tapestry of everyday life around the slight but engaging story. In French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)
Tough and haunting, Becker’s final film is a stirring tale of friendship, a gripping suspense drama, a subtle critique of totalitarianism, and a hymn to the textures of iron and stone. Based on a true story, LE TROU takes place at a Parisian prison in 1947, where four closely knit cons planning an escape are faced with a dilemma when an outsider (Michel) is placed in their cell. In French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)

This celebrated film is both a passionate love story and a stunning recreation of the 1890s Belle Epoque in Paris. CASQUE D’OR (“Golden Helmet,” referring to the heroine’s hair) centers on the temptress Marie (Signoret), whose beauty stirs up a violent rivalry among three men: her brutal apache boyfriend, a cunning crime boss, and a quiet young carpenter named Manda (Reggiani). Meeting Marie by chance at a country café, Manda is drawn into a trap that tightens with the relentless fatalism of film noir. 35mm. (MR)

Mixing romantic comedy with Hoffmannesque fairy tale, FALBALAS centers on a temperamental couturier (Rouleau) who uses and discards women as easily as one would last year’s dress. At a creative ebb, he finds renewed inspiration in his best friend’s fiancée (Presle), but this one proves not so easy to forget. Becker beautifully captures the bustling, hothouse atmosphere of the fashion house; Jean Paul Gaultier cited this as the film that inspired him to become a fashion designer. In French with English subtitles. DCP digital. (MR)

At the fringes of a war-torn Roman empire, the Egyptian Queen Cleopatra (Okonedo) and Mark Antony (Fiennes) have fallen fiercely in love. In a tragic fight between devotion and duty, obsession becomes a catalyst for war in Shakespeare’s great tragedy of politics, passion and power. DCP digital. (Description courtesy of NT Live)

A polemical defense and celebration of Orson Welles' fourteen features and a few of his shorter works, Orson Welles: The Other Side of the Argument will seek to counter some of the ideological and biographical biases that have viewed him as an out-of-control and unfulfilled artist. Despite the very unruly and unorthodox aspects of Welles' career, the richness of his artistry and the perpetual originality of his accomplishments have yielded challenges that this series will attempt to define, engage with, and honor.

NEW 4K RESTORATION!
1988, Terence Davies, UK, 85 min.
With Pete Postlethwaite, Freda Dowie

“A gripping and original piece of work.”—Dave Kehr, Chicago Tribune

Terence Davies’s autobiographical masterpiece chronicles the lives of a Liverpool working-class family. The narrative is divided into two modules: the first set during World War II and dominated by the family’s brutal father, the second centering on his children’s entry into adulthood and marriage during the early 1950s. The soundtrack is so memorably laced with period songs ("Buttons and Bows," "Bye Bye Blackbird," etc.) that the film seems almost a musical. New 4K DCP digital restoration. (MR)
